Why is China's power grid equipment sector booming?

China's power grid equipment sector is set to boom as state-owned utility firms boost spending amid rising electricity demand and a renewed call from Beijing to better incorporate the country's record-breaking renewable energy generation capacity into the power system.

How much will China spend on the grid in 2024?

China's capital expenditure on the grid will rise at least 7 per cent year on year in 2024 to 565 billion yuan, including 230 billion yuan for ultra-high-voltage projects, Citi said. However, the sector has less competition and therefore a lower risk of the overcapacity seen in China's solar panel and wind turbine sectors, according to Daiwa's Ip.

Why are analysts positive on China's Power Equipment Sector?

Analysts are positive on China's power equipment sector because rapid growth of wind and solar capacity has led to increased rates of power curtailment- when more power than the grid can handle is being generated. This means investments in grid capacity, smart grid infrastructure and energy storage must accelerate to keep up.
